Development today is not just about training courses and peer feedback. It involves the growth of our whole selves as we mature as people, as learners, as performers. Some may feel stuck in their roles, or wonder how they can contribute better, while others may be doing well and looking to grow their capability, or move to other challenges.

Being able to help people to grow and learn about themselves is crucial in achieving the balance of helping people to remain engaged today, and retain talent for tomorrow.

PRIMEXL provides a range of one-on-one coaching packages to assist key people to move “along the learning curve”, from starting a new role to preparing for the next one:

Growth Coaching is aimed at successfully positioning key people for their next career move, whether it be a promotion or a new project role.

Hi-Performance Coaching is focused on attaining mastery in the current role.

Induction Coaching sets up key people for success in their first three to six months of a new role—often the “make or break” time.

All of our individual coaching packages include:

- Written coaching agreement
- Three meetings with sponsor and coachee
- 6 coaching sessions of 90 minutes each
- Written closure report
- Access to coach outside of sessions
- Access to online resources
